RUNS DOWN HAND CAR

Three Men Riding on Hand Car on St. Paul are Run Down by Fast Train

FRED MAU, JR., IS KILLED

Accident Happens Sunday Evening Between Deerfield and Shermerville and was Due to Carelessness

Last Sunday evening at about 9 o'clock a St. Paul passenger train had a head-on collision with a small motor handcar, between the villages of Deerfield and Shermerville.

Fred Mau, Jr., an employee of the Illinois Book company of Deerfield, accompanied by Matt Rohr, a bartender employed at the Fred Anderson saloon of the same place, Sunday evening left Deerfield on a small handcar, the property of the former.

The two men, apparently new hands at operating one of these cars, opened wide the throttle when just outside the depot at Deerfield and tore down the tracks, bound for Shermerville.

When about half way from Deerfield they were bore down upon by the fast mail train which was on its way north.

There was a crash, a hissing of steam, a shrieking cry and then the scene of the catastrophe was hid in the darkness of the night.

The engineer, who swears that he had been sounding his whistle all along the tracks, threw on the brakes, the reverse lever was thrown over, and with a moan the engine stopped fully a half block from the scene of the disaster. The crew went forward but there was nothing to be found but a few scattered pieces of the wrecked motor car, and a search was made for the victims.

The engineer of the train was the first to discover the corpse of one of the victims which was lying below the embankment, 300 feet from the track.

A hurried search of the man's clothing revealed his identity and the body was conveyed to the baggage car.

Soon the party of searchers came upon another body lying across the tracks. An examination proved that the man was still alive, but that unless aid arrived in a short time he would die, as both lower limbs had been severed under the giant wheels of the engine.

A stretcher was hastily constructed and the injured man was conveyed to the baggage car, where he was placed alongside his unfortunate companion.

The men were taken to Chicago and one of the victims rushed to a hospital. Reports sent out state that Mau had been instantly killed and that there are some hopes of saving Rohr's life, although the chances are very slight.

Fred Mau, Jr., who was employed by the Illinois Book company, leaves a wife and four children to mourn his death.

Matthew Rohr has one daughter, Miss Ethel, who is but eight years of age. Mr. Rohr was employed as bartender at the Fred Anderson saloon at Deerfield.

It is now known that a third party was mixed up in the bad smashup, his name being C. Carroll, who is employed by the St. Paul as operator in the lower station at Deerfield, and he is undoubtedly to blame for the whole thing as he escaped without a scratch.

Mau and Rohr were waiting at Shermerville to take the train to Deerfield when Carroll came along and asked them to ride with him on the gasoline car, and they accepted the invitation. Carroll knew that he was doing something which was strictly against the rules of the railroad when he asked them to ride, and it therefore placed in a bad position, where he will have to bear the full responsibility of the accident which caused the death of one man and probably two. Carroll saw the express train bearing down upon their little car and, abandoning his companions, jumped from the car and escaped with hardly a scratch.

CHICAGOANS PURCHASE FARMS AT LIBERTYVILLE

Wealthy city people are fast acquiring the attractive farms west and northwest of Lake Forest. Samuel Insull has recently bought three farms on the Des Plaines river, between Half Day and Libertyville, which will be converted into a beautiful country place.

The tract includes the Barr farm of 132 acres, the Carroll farm of 140 acres, both on Milwaukee avenue, and the Peterson farm of 160 acres on the Diamond Lake road. Mr. Insull has a large force of men at work making improvements.

COLUMBIA CLUB OPENING

"House Warming" Takes Place Sunday and Many Invited Guests Present

On Sunday, June 7, the new Columbia Club house at Fox Lake was the scene of a formal opening. Invitations had been issued by the club members to their many friends to participate with them at the "house warming" and a generous response was the result.

The day was an ideal one; sunshine and cool lake breezes added to the comfort of the guests who thoroughly enjoyed themselves on this occasion.

This club has been in existence for many years and has for a number of years owned a place at Fox Lake, twice however it has been burned to the ground, and each time has been replaced with a better, more substantial and more modern structure than before.

The present structure which has recently been completed, is built of concrete blocks, is three stories in height and is built with a wide shady veranda extending around three sides. The interior is beautifully finished in Mission oak with the decorations and furniture to match. The house has all the modern conveniences and was built at a cost of $10,000.

Covers were laid for about two hundred guests, with decorations consisting of carnations, roses and ferns. The menu was of the best and reflects much credit on the manager, Robert Weidmuller, who has secured one of the best caterers to be found anywhere.

After the two hour dinner was over and coffee and cigars were on tap, the toastmaster, Hart Hanson, called on the various club members and their guests, all of whom responded with a few appropriate remarks.

James Gardner, the president of the club, delivered the speech of welcome and gave a short history of the club. The secretary, Capt. James J. Wilson, the "juvenile member of 73" gave a good talk in which he related his associations with the club, and told of its reverses and prosperity. Thomas Webb, of Chicago, one of the guests, made a fine speech, with a few illustrated stories, for which he is noted. Senator Lundin, the bright and witty Swedish orator, made a ringing speech full of enthusiasm and bright ideas that classed him among the bright stars of the banquet table. George B. Johnson of Channel, one of the active members of the club was present and ever on the alert to see that their guests were properly entertained. Altogether the occasion was one that will arouse pleasant memories for a long time to come.

BARRINGTON, BRY, FIGHTS MOVE FOR DRAM SHOP

McGraw & Sherret have petitioned the Board of supervisors to grant them a license to conduct a dram shop at Cuba milk station about four miles northwest of Barrington in Cuba township. Their petition contains a majority of all the voters in the township as required by law.

Supervisor Lamey presented a remonstrance signed by forty-three citizens of the township. In this petition it is alleged: "That the village of Barrington at the election held April 21, 1908, became anti-saloon territory, and that the evident purpose of the applicants for such license is to provide means for securing intoxicating liquor to the residents of Barrington desiring the same, who can not secure it within said village, and that the granting of such license by you will tend to lesson to the residents of said village the beneficial results of the recent election. Your attention is also called to the fact that it is alleged and generally believed that the applicants for such license have for some time been engaged in the unlawful selling of liquor at Cuba station, and without license from your honorable body." The petition and remonstrance are in the hands of the committee on license.

E. GRAHAM IS BEST IN SHOOT

Edward Graham, a professional marksman, of Lake County, and a resident of Fox Lake, walked away with the honors in the regular Sunday shoot of the Chicago Gun Club Sunday by taking first place in two events and tying for the second in the two remaining shoots.

In the class shooting at 50 yards Graham stood high with 47 shattered, while Johnson was second with 45.

In the board of trade trophy handicap, Graham cracked 24 targets out of 25. In the Chicago Gun Club challenge cup event Graham and Kuhlino were deadlocked for second with 23 targets each. Miller took first in that event with 24 hits. In the club handicap at 25 targets Gilman won first place with 23 strikes.

FROST RENDERS DECISION

Says Dowie Had no Right to Choose His Own Successor

LOOKS GOOD FOR VOLIVA

Review of Decision Made by Judge Frost Casts Strange Side Light and Places Power in Hands of People

Dowie had no right to choose his own successor.

The courts of the land have no right to name him.

The people interested in Zion City are the ones to decide.

The terms of the decision rendered in the Voliva injunction case by Judge Frost are substantially as above and as Voliva now is conceded to have a majority vote in Zion City it looks as though the court had by indirectness declared him general overseer.

After hearing the arguments supporting the request of the attorneys for Wilbur Glenn Voliva for a dissolution of the injunction restraining Voliva from issuing the Leaves of Healing and Zion's Herald, and the opposition arguments of the attorneys for the Lewis faction, Judge Frost at Rockford Monday rendered a decision dissolving the injunction.

Both Lewis and Voliva claim the title of Overseer of Zion City by virtue of appointment in two different wills made by Dowie and as such each claims the right to publish the two pamphlets mentioned. Both have been putting out Leaves of Healing and Herald and the Lewis faction is seeking to put Voliva's papers out of business.

Judge Frost held that it was not for the court to decide who was the real overseer of Zion City. He said Mr. Dowie had no right to confer the title, that it was for the others interested in Zion City to decide their proposition, those who contribute to the support and maintenance of the organization. Judge Frost claimed that neither in life nor in will after death did Dowie have the right to name his successor.

Judge Frost granted the motion for the dissolution of the injunction and Attorney Lewis, who represents Voliva, will prepare an order for the court to sign in Chicago.

COLT FORCED INTO WELL IS CHOKED

Pushed into a sixty foot well by a frolicsome bull, on the J. J. Lohdell place near Long Lake, tannery by Robert Runyard, a colt was near rescue three times and finally was killed near the brink of the well by being choked to death by the rope about its neck.

Two colts including the one killed in such a freak fashion, were in the pasture lot with a young bull. In the lot was also a sixty foot well. The stock frolicked together a great deal and Monday the bull pushed the colt to the brink of the well and then into it.

Runyard summoned the neighbors and was lowered by means of a ladder into the well, where the colt pawed furiously, making Runyard's trip a hazardous one that few would have undertaken.

A harness was rigged about the colt's legs and shoulder, but when the animal had been dragged a part way up, the rope broke and the animal fell again into the depths, neighing piteously.

On the second attempt the harness broke and when the third attempt was made the rope about the colt's neck choked it to death, so that when it reached the top of well he was at the last gasp and died at once.

FLYING AX CUTS OUT WAUKEGAN MAN'S EYE

John Trimble of Jefferson avenue, Waukegan, lost his eye near five o'clock Wednesday afternoon in a queer manner. He was chopping a timber at the naval training station, working on one end while another man worked at the other end.

Trimble laid down his ax for a moment on his end of the log but the other man hit his end a blow with his ax and Trimble's ax flew into the air, hitting Trimble in the eye, splitting open the eye ball and lodging into the contents, splitting the eye lid and cutting a nick in the forehead.

Mr. Trimble, who is sixty years old, loses the sight of the eye. The wound was attended to at the hospital by Dr. Gourley.

INSPECT NAVAL SCHOOL

Chicago Commerce Association Which Purchased Site on Annual Visit

FOSS LEADS THE PARTY

Party Looks Over Site and Ends Visit With Game of Golf at Onwentsia-Taft and Roosevelt Expected Later

Headed by Congressman Foss, a party of members of the Chicago Commerce Association which purchased the site for the naval school at North Chicago, visited and inspected the reservation Wednesday afternoon.

Fifty members of the Chicago Commerce Association, headed by H. R. McCullough, vice-president of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, assisted by Admiral Ross, Capt. McKay and Paymaster Rose, of the naval station, spent a most enjoyable hour inspecting the work now being completed at the naval station just south of North Chicago.

A special train brought the prominent business men and bankers from the big metropolis at 11:45 Wednesday. The inspection committee ate dinner in the new dining cars, which had been attached to the special train.

Arriving at the station at 12:30 the party was escorted to the lake front, where an examination of the marine construction work was commenced. All members of the party were heartily pleased with the rapid strides apparent.

Although the party spent the entire hour at the station not one member of the association was able to locate a single flaw in the work already completed. The party left the naval training site at 2 o'clock for Lake Forest, where members swapped golf balls and romped around Onwentsia all afternoon.

In the evening a banquet was served to the half hundred at the golf ground club house.

Capt. Hood, of the British navy, who at present is acting as the British attaché to this country, was unable to be in attendance, but it is understood that he will visit the station next week.

During the year President Theodore Roosevelt and Secretary of War Taft are scheduled to visit the station. It has not been learned yet just when these two leaders of the country's interests will pay their respects to this part of the country.

EASTERN FIRM LANDS BIG CONTRACT

The B'Oiler Engineering Company of Philadelphia was awarded the contract for the construction of the large electric heating and pumping plant, when it was learned that their bid which amounted to $125,000 was the lowest bid offered to the government, after no less than forty other bids had been taken into consideration.

This is one of the largest contracts let by the government for work to be performed at Lake Bluff and thousands of eastern and western firms have awaited the decision as to who would secure the contract for the past three months.

The B'Oiler Engineering Company of Philadelphia is one of the largest construction companies in the world. The officials of the company announce that the new work will be started within ten days. A force of not less than 300 men will be put to work in order to rush the job.

This large plant, which will all be housed under one roof, will be constructed on the lake front at the northeast corner of the reservation.

Bids for the construction of the large concrete tunnels, which will lead from the pumping, heating and electrical station will be advertised for next week. An appropriation allows over $175,000 to be spent in the construction of these tunnels.

No electrical wire, heating pipes or other appliances will be above the ground. All such conveniences will be placed in conduits buried seven feet under the level of the ground.

Hearty Meat Eaters.

An Eskimo will devour greedily 20 pounds of meat a day. A Russian Tartar will eat in 24 hours 40 pounds. Capt. Cochran mentions a Tartar who consumed in that time the hind quarters of a large ox, 20 pounds of fat and a proportionate quantity of molten butter for drink. Three of his tribe—the Yakut—think nothing of polishing off a reindeer at a meal.

A SUICIDE NEAR ROLLINS

James Bower, 21 Years Old, Blows Out Brains With Shot Gun

James Bower, aged 21, who resides at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. George Cleveland, at Rollins, where he was employed as a farm hand, committed suicide early last Thursday morning by blowing out his brains with a shot gun.

Mr. Bower, according to the statements of the family, retired early Wednesday evening in an apparently happy frame of mind. He was heard to get up as usual the next morning about the time to care for the cattle and but a few minutes later a shot was heard in the yard at the rear of the residence, just north of the milk house.

Mr. Cleveland, who was in bed at the time, rushed out and found the young man lying face downward, dead.

The suicide's skull was badly fractured and death must have ensued soon after the act was committed.

Mr. Bower's mother and father are both dead. He leaves two sisters and a host of relatives to mourn his demise.

Coroner Taylor was summoned and an inquest held and it was learned that the young man had been ailing all winter and that at times he felt despondent.

The young man, according to Mrs. Cleveland's statements at the inquest, had been complaining of late about feeling sick. He was taken to Grayslake where a doctor had made an examination. The doctor told him that if he did not feel better in a few days, after taking the medicine prescribed, to come back and see him again, but the lad stated the next day that he was feeling a great deal better.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the young man came to his death by suicide.

YOUNG ZIONITE DREW KNIFE

High School Boys Start Trouble By Flirting.

Drawing an open hunting knife on at least a dozen Waukegan high school athletes who had been carrying on a general free-for-all flirtation with a girl who he claimed as his sister, a Zionite, probably just old enough to know better, caused a panic on one of the Chicago & Milwaukee Electric cars late Saturday afternoon when he made a lunge at one of the lads and when he threatened to "clean up the bunch."

The lad was quickly quieted by other Zionites in the car, but he continued to make threats all the way down Washington street, although the incident occurred at Beach.

The local lads, it was later learned, had aroused the boy's jealousy when they attempted to hold a flirtation with his best girl. The girl appeared willing to ent up with the boys and this tended to increase the Zionite's ire.

Waukegan athletes seemed to be spoiling to repay the Zionite for her kind remarks, but the presence of Professor Stebbins seemed to put a check on anything of this description.

DEATH OF MRS. HOYT OF CHETEK

On Thursday morning of last week, at her home at Chetek, Wis., occurred the death of Mrs. A. Hoyt, a former, well known resident of this place.

Mrs. Hoyt had been in poor health for a number of years, and no amount of care or medical skill could overcome her malady and each year she gradually failed until on Thursday last when death came as a relief to her long suffering.

At one time Mr. Hoyt was engaged in the mercantile business here but about six years ago sold out his interest to Gideon Thayer and moved with his family to Chetek where they have resided every since.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and two daughters, Ruth and Mrs. J. W. VanPatten, and one son Beryl, besides her aged father and mother, two brothers Alvin and Archie Vickers, both of Chetek, and one sister Mrs. Ed Neff of Wilmet, Wis.

The funeral was held at the home Saturday afternoon at half past one o'clock. Their many Antioch friends extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

MAYOR BULLOCK NOT TO BE A CANDIDATE

It is not at all probable that Mayor Bullock will become a candidate for the republican nomination for senator according to information the Sun gets from his close advisers. There seems a disposition to unite on Senator Tiffany. It is realized two candidates will so complicate matters in this county that neither can win and Mr. Tiffany's candidacy is being viewed with considerable favor through our county.

If Lake county republicans unite on a single candidate for the nomination there is hardly a doubt but that the plan will come this way.—Waukegan Sun.

SUICIDE NEAR GURNEE

Mailman's Creepy Find is Dead Body of Man Who Hung Self With Suspender

HAD NOT BEEN DEAD LONG

Human Dericlet Leaves no Clue to Identity Beyond Initials Sewn Into Underwear and Conceal Scene of Deed

With the aid of the cloth suspenders which he had torn off from his blue rib overalls which he had worn for three or four months, an unknown, evidently a wanderer by nature rather than by luck, committed suicide by hanging himself from a three inch maple sapling by the side of the log road which runs north from Gurnee, at a locality about a half mile from the little village.

Lee Hook, the village mailman, found the body of the suicide swinging from the sapling, which had been surrounded by small twigs purposely cut from neighboring trees and stuck in the ground surrounding the tree on which the unknown committed suicide, to delay the finding of the body. The body, according to the coroner's statement, had not been swinging long when found.

The method used by the suicide to end his life was a very extraordinary one, inasmuch as when the body was lowered from the tree, it was discovered that the loop of the suspenders did not encircle the neck, but instead had been looped around the chin.

Coroner Taylor, upon learning of the suicide, hastened to Gurnee for the purpose of inquiring as to the causes of his death. A jury was quickly picked up and later determined that the man had died by hanging, a suicide.

The only clues picked up which might lead to identification of the body were initials found on the man's underwear. The follow initials were found on the clothing: "G," "R," "B," and "R.H."

It was learned later that the man spent part of Sunday wandering about Waukegan. Sunday evening, about 8:30, he approached Jake Dietmeyer and was about to make a "touch" for something to eat when his nerve failed. Jake, in his good natured fashion, however, was wise to what the man wanted to say and gave poor fellow, who apparently had been of work for some time, a quarter of a dollar.

The fellow spent the entire quarter at Bracher & Dixon grocery store where he reported as having purchased 10 cent's worth of soda crackers and three bottles of pop.

The man's appearance leads the jury to believe that he was about 55 years of age. He was dressed in a blue rib suit of working garments, composed of a jumper and a pair of overalls. He also had on a suit of union underwear. Lying on the ground beside the tree from which the body was lowered was found a lumberman's coat. His height was given at 5 feet 7 inches. He also had on a pair of cloth shoes.

THIEVES LOOT RESIDENCE AT LAKE FOREST

One of the most daring thefts ever brought to light in Lake Forest was the one which took place early Saturday evening, when thieves entered the Lake Forest Golf Grounds Club house and carried away one gold watch valued at $50.00, two diamond rings valued at about $200.00 and two chains valued somewhere in the neighborhood of $50.00.

The robbery took place while Middleton Smith, the caretaker, and part of his family were out walking. The husband and family left the club house about eight o'clock and were absent about half an hour.

About 8:45 o'clock Mrs. Smith observed the large bureau drawers in the family dresser lying on the floor and their contents spread about the bed room.

She called her husband, who in turn notified the police. Every since that time the Lake Forest police have spent their entire time in picking up and following clues found both on the club grounds and in the house.

It is feared the thieves escaped to Chicago, where the goods were undoubtedly pawned. All Chicago pawnshops will be visited in the hope of finding some clue that may lead to the arrest of the culprit.

SYNOPSIS.

Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American (touring Corsica), rescues the young English lieutenant, Edward Gerard Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the "Paoletti," from the murderous vendetta. The four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer Constantine. The vendetta pursues and as the quartet are about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey. Barnes and Edna are married. Soon after their wedding Barnes' bride appears. Barnes discovers who has been kidnapped and taken to Corsica. The groom secures a sailing vessel and is about to start in pursuit of his bride's captors when he hears a scream from the villa and rushes back to hear that Anstruther's wife, Marina, is also missing. Barnes is compelled to depart for Corsica without delay, and so he leaves the search for Marina to her husband while he goes to hunt for Edna. Just before Barnes' boat lands on Corsica's shore Marina is discovered hiding in a corner of the villa. She explains her detention by saying she has come to help Barnes rescue his wife from the Corsicans. When Barnes and Marina arrive in Corsica he is given a note written by Edna informing him that the kidnapping is for the purpose of entrapping Barnes so the vendetta may kill him. Barnes and Marina have unusual adventures in their search for Edna. They come in sight of her and her captors in the Corsican mountain wilds just as the night approaches. In seeking shelter from a storm the couple enter a hermitage and there to their amazement they discover Tomasso, the foster father of Marina, who was supposed to have been killed by De Belloc's soldiers, and for whose death Barnes had been vendettized. Tomasso learns that Marina's husband did not kill her brother. Many wrongs are explained. Barnes is surprised in the hermitage by Rochini and Romano, the two detected bandits, who had been searching for him to murder him for his money. The bandits attempt to take away Marina. Barnes darts out the door. The bandits start to pursue him, but as they reach the door both are laid low by Barnes' revolver. Members of the Belloc family enter and Barnes is honored for his great service to the community in killing the hated Rochini and Romano. The release of Edna is promised. Barnes is conveyed in triumph to Bolognina. Marina acquires the Belloc family with Salicetti's plot against her husband and the people are instructed to vote against him at the coming election. Barnes is taken to the mansion of the Paoletti to meet Edna. Marina receives a telegram. She starts for Bastia to meet her husband. Entering the room to greet his wife Barnes is bewildered to find the adventuress La Belle Blackwood, but not Edna. She had been substituted for the American's bride by a shrewd plot. Lieut. Anstruther arrives to find Marina and learns that she has been lured away by the telegraph which had been sent by another without his knowledge. The two start in search of Marina. Barnes and Edwin take different roads in their search. Edwin is trapped in a tower where he is made prisoner. In endeavoring to escape he opens a trap door where he finds Emory, the detective, who had been imprisoned there previously.

"Oh, hang it, what have they done to you, smarty?" growls the detective angrily. Then he cries: "Glory hallelujah! Bully for you!" for Edwin has run down the ladder and is busy trying to unlock the doors from the American's legs.

"They've got keys somewhere," snarls Emory. "Hang it, I think of their cheek, manhandling a detective."

Edwin is up the ladder again. He strikes another match and on the ground story finds, after some little delay, a bunch of keys hanging on the wall.

After some trouble with the locks, which are rusty, Edwin's legs are released and he ascends with Edwin, his jaws almost snapping with rage as he tells his wrongs.

"I was playing the fisherman at St. Tropez," he says. "I had got onto them, all right. I knew the head devil, the elder man, Cipriano, when, like a fool, I went on board of that big, cursed fishing felucca to them, pretending to want to get a job, thinking I would find out what the devil they were driving at. That was the end of me. I hadn't more than got in the fore-castle than I was covered with two long knives, and that scar-faced fellow said to me: 'The first time, you were warned to keep out of this affair. This is the second time.' They were savage enough to kill me, but they simply corded me up and threw me in the hold, and oh, what a time I had as their infernal vessel dashed about the Mediterranean after you. When they gave up chasing you they stopped here and put me away carefully in that hole down there."

Suddenly he cries: "What are you doing?" for Edwin has his hands in an iron ring and is trying to pull up another trap door in the flooring.

"I want tools by which we can break enough masonry from one of these embrasures to get out!" says the sailor.

But pulling up the trap door, both he and the American gazed astounded into the other vault.

Two red flaming eyes encounter theirs. "If you come to kill me, I'll die like a Corsican, my teeth in your throat!" cries a low, hoarse voice.

Then as Anstruther lights another match, a shriek rises to them: "The husband of Marina, Madre di Dio!"

"Tomasso!" exclaims Edwin, adding: "In God's name, where is my wife?"

"Diavolo, of course, you have come here to find her. At the fork of the Bastia road, I thought the 'Lucchesi' captured my mistress and myself and forced us to drive toward the east. Coming over the mountains, their language told me they were not 'Lucchesi,' but Corsicans. I would have told Marina, but when I got out to water the horses at the little fountain up near Pietra, two of them struck me insensible and I awoke and found myself here. But, Signore, I beg you to note one thing. Your true wife and my honored mistress believes she was rescued from the 'Lucchesi' by Cipriano Danella, and she is grateful to him. Get me to the light that I may aid you." The old Corsican has faintly staggered up; a moment later he is pulled from the vault by the strong hands of Anstruther and the detective.

"This is old Tomasso Moaldi," says Edwin shortly, "who was supposed to be killed."

"Holy smoke, the fellow who was believed dead and they vendettized Barnes about!"

"Yes."

But Tomasso's words make them feel they have little time to lose. Besides, Emory is always whispering with white lips: "This tower is mined!" Together they go up the stairs, carefully examining every orifice in the building, but find them all loopholes too small to permit the exit of a man, and the masonry too solid to be broken through in any ordinary time, as the building is bare of tools and weapons.

"There is nothing but to get out of the upper chamber," says Edwin. "I'm a sailor. With half a chance, a single vine, with even the assistance of our clothes torn into lengths, I can scramble down. Some way I'll do it."

They have reached the upper room. Anstruther has thrown off his coat and vest, kicked off his shoes and taken off his stockings. Toes will cling to the rough stonework better than boots. He picks up the letter and the concluding sentences seem to make him crazy. He springs to the window and a muttered oath parts his white lips, for he encounters a grilling of heavy iron so securely fastened on the outside that it is impossible for him to make exit.

But even as Edwin struggles with the grating, he utters a low cry, half of longing, half of despair.

Upon the portico of the modern portion of the farmhouse, pleasant with vines and flowers, almost reclining in a hammock is Marina. Robed in white, the young wife looks like a dream of love to her despairing husband. Her face is flushed, if not happily, at least excitedly. To her, speaking—the distance is too great for Edwin to understand the words, but apparently from the gestures they are those of amity—Is Count Cipriano Danella, his eyes sparkling vivaciously, his costume the romantic one of Corsica.

CHAPTER XVII.
Whiffs in the Air.

Some time after midday, Mr. Barnes, in pursuit of Anstruther, reaches Ponte-alla-Lecchia, where the people are now crowding about the polling house. He doesn't stop here and continues rapidly on, notwithstanding the sun is very hot, the dust is very heavy. As he climbs the high hills toward Morsaglia, he commences to find cyclamen flowers, quite faded now and having but little perfume.

This Glorious Orezza Water Will Make You a New Man.

"By Jove," he remarks, "I gave Edwin the right path. I should have turned back and followed him last night, not to-day."

This makes him hurry all the more, and his horse is quite exhausted when he descends the hill past the convent and pauses at the little inn near the famous water of Orezza.

The American has heard of their curious powers, and asks for some, as he gazes languidly on the communal of the little village, around which the men are still clustering.

The heat has been tremendous; his speed has been quite great; the hills have been precipitous. Barnes' face is again covered with lines of fatigue.

"This glorious Orezza water will make you a new man," chafes the landlord pleasantly; and never had the wondrous youth-giving chalybeate a better patient to work upon, for as the overfervent fluid, cold from the springs of the mountains, flows down the American's throat, new power, new vigor seem to enter each nerve, each limb.

It is now quite late in the afternoon. Burton soon passes the chestnut lands of La Castagniccia, still finding a few faded cyclamen blooms to guide him on his way. But now a little shock thrills him. He checks his horse abruptly, springs off and picks up a bunch of the wild flowers. As he rides along examining it he ejaculates: "This is very extraordinary. This branch, which I supposed Marina dropped out of the carriage yesterday, was certainly cut this very morning."

Suspicion flashes through him as he questions: "Can these flowers have been strewn in the road by Cipriano's agents to lead someone on?" and what had been no warning to the easy-going sailor becomes a danger signal to the man of the world.

Yet, twist it how he will, Barnes can see no reason why Danella should want anyone near him save Marina. If the Corsican's passion for that young lady is what he thinks it is, he will prefer a free hand to deal with her alone. "And yet it is evident somebody wanted somebody to follow this cyclamen trail, and whether somebody wants it or not, I am here anyway," thinks the American grimly. "And thanks to the divine Orezza water, I am rather fit for fighting." Then carefully examining his revolver, the pistol shot remarks: "And that's fit also, thank God."

With this, resolutely but more elusively, Mr. Barnes continues his way over the path marked by the cyclamen branches.

By the time he has come out on the hills looking down toward the Tescan sea, it is very dark. There is no moon yet, but the light from the lone watch tower attracts him. The cyclamen flowers he occasionally picks up make him know this is the road Anstruther must have traveled.

Suddenly, but quietly, he turns his horse from the path, and in the seclusion of a thicket of wild grapes, listens. Some dozen men are coming from the east; he hears one of them growl: "Why, there's no 'Lucchesi' nearer than Pietra to fight, though the count ordered every man about the farm to go out and protect the vines from them."

"Well, there's some good reason for Maestro Cipriano's orders. Perhaps the Italian laborers in the Green Orezza quarry have risen up," adds another.

"Perhaps with the lady he wishes not to be disturbed," giggles a third. "The count has musicians in a boat off the shore."

The men have no sooner passed than Barnes starts quickly down the road. The "lady," he guesses, means either Marina or his own bride, though of the last he has slight hope. A subdued light from the town guides him in the darkness.

But when he is within less than a hundred yards of the building, his horse, with a sudden sense of terror, draws up right in the path, crouching on his haunches, and Barnes peering over his steed's head, gazes into the deep chasm that descends sheer to the very sea. Springing from his trembling horse, the American finds that the bridge, which is a light, swinging one not over 35 feet in length, has been swung to the other side.

The scent of a fresh cyclamen bloom enters his nostrils. He looks at the removed bridge and remarks neatly: "It's evident Cipriano has got on the other side the person he wished to follow these flowers."

So Barnes gazes across the chasm he cannot pass. The night being very still, he hears over the soft murmur of the waves beneath him the sweet romantic music of Corsica rising from a boat. 'Tis the playing of stringed instruments accompanying a sweet native love song, each stanza ending in that curious prolonged note peculiar to these island ditties.

"What the deuce is that bizarre, crafty devil's game?" wonders the American. Then he hears voices from the low Corsican house. Beyond the crevices he sees Marina in white robe amid the lights and flowers of the veranda. Her sweet tones are scarce audible. Then Danella's voice reaches him faintly in the soft night air.

He begins to understand and mutters: "Good God!"

After a little cry of love, yet despair rends the heavens from the tower. It is Anstruther's. "Tis mingled with a woman's shriek for mercy. 'My husband!' in Marina's voice.

Next Barnes hears Cipriano's suave, triumphant laugh, and he mutters: "My God, for a pistol it's a fearfully long shot, but it's the only way!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Where Mark Twain Had Gone.

When Mark Twain was working hard on one of his earlier books that brought him fame he sailed for Europe with his family. He kept up his writing on shipboard, leaving it only for brief recreations. One day an approaching storm drove him to the cabin, and as he retired to work he left word with his daughter, then a very little girl, to explain his absence. "If they ask for me," he said to her, "say that I won't be long; I have only gone to write an anecdote." A little later a passenger accosted the child: "Where has your father gone?" "He won't be gone long," lisped the child; "he's only going to ride a naany-goot."

The Glow of Glory.

We are all influenced by a desire of praise, and the best men are the most especially attracted by glory. Those very philosophers, even in the books which they write about despising glory, put their own names on the title-page. In the very act of recording their contempt for renown and notoriety, they desire to have their own names known and talked of.—Cicero.

Happenings of Illinois

News Notes of Interest Gathered in Cities, Towns and Villages of the State.

LOSES BRIDE OF A DAY.

Girl Wife of Macoupin County Man Deserts Him.

Alton.—Clarence Maybery, a 29-year-old farmer of Macoupin county, lost his 19-year-old bride of a day. Maybery and Miss Mamie Grace first appeared at the marriage license office but when asked her name she refused to give it, saying her mother opposed the marriage. They were married, however. Maybery got a warrant for the arrest of Edgar Suttles, a 22-year-old druggist of Ellsberry, charging him with kidnapping his bride on the street and taking her into her mother's home where she was locked in. Sheriff Crow refused to serve the warrant when he found Suttles, at the bride's mother's home, a cripple, unable to walk alone, and Maybery's bride told him she was not abducted and that she only married Maybery after he made threats, finally yielding to his importunities. Later she returned.

WATER DAMAGES CROPS.

Farmers of Illinois Lowlands Will Suffer Heavily.

Alton.—Much damage has been done to wheat and corn crops in Illinois by the high stages of the Mississippi and Illinois rivers, according to reports by farmers in the lowlands. Farmers in the DuRoi prairie, extending from the Missouri river to the Wabash railroad at Elm Point in St. Charles county, say their wheat and corn lands were under three feet of water, and that the Missouri river was rising. Mississippi Point, at the junction of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, was inundated, and the ferry boat could not land.

Big Judgment Awarded.

Chicago.—Judge Kavanaugh in the superior court here rendered a judgment against the Black Hills Portland Cement company of $30,000 each in favor of F. W. Stanhope and Samuel W. Engle. Stanhope claimed to have been retained by the company to supervise the construction of a cement plant and brought suit for $35,000 he claimed was due him for services.

Alleged Horse Thief Jailed.

Carlinville.—Joseph Spurgis has been placed in the county jail here on an indictment charging him with stealing a horse and other property from E. A. Bowman of Girard. The theft was committed in 1905. Spurgis has just been released from the reform school on parole. He was held for a horse theft committed in Madison county.

Banker Nall Released.

Murphysboro.—James S. Nall, who, with W. B. Smith, was convicted of conspiring to defraud the Elkhaville State bank of over $5,000, and was placed in the Chester penitentiary to commence a five years' sentence, was released on $3,000 bond, pending the review of the case.

Bee Hatch Chickens.

Danville.—Mrs. W. P. Johnson of Vermilion Grove has hit upon a scheme of making bee hatch chickens when they are not engaged in making honey. The top of the bee hives are filled with eggs separated from the honey combs by strips of carpet.

Seize Campaign Photos.

Joliet.—The campaign managers for Congressman Snapp and Adam Clow, who seeks Snapp's seat, have been violating a city ordinance in tacking up pictures of their leaders on telegraph and telephone posts. City officials tore all the pictures down.

Glard Preparing for Chautauqua.

Glard.—The second annual chautauqua assembly will be held here June 16 to 21 inclusive. The prohibition state committee directs this chautauqua series and the presentation of the prohibition question is to be a part of the program.

$30,000 for Pavement.

Taylorville.—In the county court County Judge J. H. Morgan ordered the assessment rolls for the Cherokee and Franklin street paving confirmed. Several objections were entered upon the question of benefits, but later were withdrawn.

New Head for Pana Schools.

Pana.—G. B. Coffman of Mondota has been chosen superintendent of the Pana schools for the coming year at a salary of $1,200.

Missionaries Gather.

Chaplin.—The annual meeting of the Illinois Christian Missionary society of the Fifth district was held here.

Pastors Up in Arms.

Carlinville.—Because a Chautauqua speaker called former Congressman J. Nick Porritt of Belleville "an advocate of saloons," the ministers of Carlinville refused to let their names go on the high school commencement program.

To Make Own Fixtures.

Clinton.—The pupils of the manual training department of the local high school will manufacture the furniture for the new high school soon to be erected. This was decided at a session of the school board.

SIXTY CARS PASS OVER CHILD.

Little Girl Miraculously Escapes Death Trying to Follow Father.

Murphysboro.—Beulah, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bagley, residing 16 miles west of this city, had a miraculous escape from death when an Illinois Central freight train of 60 cars passed over her and left her unconscious lying in the center of the track. The family live near the track and the child attempted to follow her father to work. In crossing the track she fell, and before she could regain her footing the train was upon her, the engine and 60 cars passing over her body. The unconscious child was picked up by the mother. She was suffering from an ugly gash in the back of her head and had many other bruises. Her clothing was badly soiled and torn, telling of her horrible experience and narrow escape from death. In a few hours doctors restored the little tot to consciousness and she is now recovering nicely.

"DREAM GIRL" IS A BRIDE.

Lida Bridges of East St. Louis Led to Altar by Youth.

East St. Louis.—Miss Lida Bridges, who slept four days last fall and returned to consciousness with a vivid description of heaven, and Raleigh Taylor, who sat by her side during her trance, are to be married this month. The license was issued here. Miss Bridges fell into her four days' sleep following a long illness. When she awoke she told of her rambling through the groves and meadows of heaven, and repeated conversations she had had with her grandfather and four brothers, who are dead.

SEEKS HIGH OFFICE.

L. T. Dickason.

Springfield.—Friends of L. T. Dickason of Chicago believe he will be elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at its national encampment in Toledo, O., next August. He has the solid backing of the Illinois delegation. Mr. Dickason has large coal and hotel interests throughout the country, with extensive offices in Chicago. In 1885 he was appointed president of the Illinois Sailors' and Soldiers' Home at Quincy. At the first call for troops by President Lincoln Mr. Dickason enlisted as a private in an Ohio regiment. He moved to Danville, soon after the war and was elected mayor in 1871, serving ten years. In 1887 he removed to Chicago.

Rigid with Lockjaw; Recovers.

Freeport.—A remarkable recovery from lockjaw of the most critical kind has been completed by George Sherbonds. It started when he ran a silver into his hand. When the disease was at its height his body was so stiff that the combined weight of several men could not bend it.

Cheats Death by Leap.

Edwardsville.—Mrs. Albert R. Zimmerlied of Edwardsville, a bride of a month, considers her young husband a hero. He saved her life by taking her in his arms and leaping from a tressle into Desplaines river to escape an electric car bearing down upon them.

Once Millionaire; Dies Pauper.

Prophetstown.—Once a millionaire, Adam Rydal dropped dead in a saloon here, with not a cent of his fortune left. He and his brothers and sisters were beneficiaries of two large estates at various times, in all $1,000,000 going to Adam Rydal.

Issues 376 Hunters' Licenses.

Petersburg.—Game Warden Bryant says he has issued 376 hunters' licenses to Petersburg sportsmen in the last year.

Blow May Cause Death.

Lincoln.—Frank Frorer, millionaire banker and coal operator, was near death at his home from paralysis induced from a blow on the head administered several weeks ago when he was held up and robbed.

"Corn King" Sleeps in Tent.

Evanson.—Mr. Patton, who cleared $1,500,000 in his corner of the corn market, sleeps in a tent. He has adopted the open air "treatment" for pure love of nature, and is enthusiastic over the results.

WHERE THE DANGER LAY.

Listeners in Greater Peril Than Was Ambitious Musician.

There was never a more conscientious young man than Eben Soule, and when he found how much absorbed he had become with the mere idea of playing in the town band, he consulted his minister. "Do you reckon I could give up all that time to music without falling from grace?" he asked, anxiously.

The good old Methodist had a saving sense of humor. He saw that his parishioner was much distressed between his wishes and his conscience, but the minister smiled on him, nevertheless.

"It's the horn you're asked to play, I hear," he said. "Ever had much experience with it, Eben?"

"Never tried it but once, but I like the sound of it first-rate," said the young man.

"Mm!" said the minister. "Well, I think you needn't be afraid of falling from grace on account of it, but I do hope you'll manage things so your family and neighbors won't have to pass through the fiery temptation of hearing you practice too often, Eben."—Youth's Companion.

Using the Telephone.

It was the first time she had ever used a telephone and the drug clerk detected the fact by the nervous way in which she held the receiver.

"Dear me," she exclaimed, timidly, "why are all those stovetop holes in the mouthpiece?"

"They are there for a purpose," replied the drug clerk, solemnly.

"What purpose?"

"Why, so you can strain your voice." And she was so embarrassed she forgot the number she was to call up.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS.

ANTIOCH, ILLINOIS.

A REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY

A. B. JOHNSON, Editor and Proprietor

By Mail, One Dollar per Year, in Advance

Telephone, Antioch No. 402.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Five of the twenty-five men who have been elected to the Vice Presidency have become President and in view of this fact it behooves the Republican party to select the second man on the ticket with the greatest care.

The American Minister to Panama, Mr. Squiers, has been instructed by cable to leave Colon by the first steamer for Washington. Evidently the political situation in Panama, which seemed to have been cleared for a time by the position taken by the United States regarding the coming elections, is becoming more complicated every day.

Funds for the purchase of supplies for the army during the current fiscal year are so depleted that no further purchase will be made for miscellaneous supplies for the Philippines until after July 1st, the beginning of the next fiscal year. For this reason on contracts will be made under bids opened at San Francisco on April 11th.

President Roosevelt paid his tribute to the memory of the country's dead heroes on Memorial day. Accompanied only by his doorkeeper he left at ten o'clock in the morning for Arlington in an open surry nearly filled with three large floral emblems. The monument to General Sheridan, the monument to the Spanish war veterans, and the monument to the unknown dead were decorated with the beautiful wreaths and designs.

As the members of Congress return to their respective homes they carry with them a consciousness of much important work wisely and carefully performed and a confidence that a vast majority of their fellow-citizens will entertain no doubt that the welfare of the country can be best promoted by the retention of as large or larger Republican majorities in the two houses of Congress, as well as by the election to the highest office in the land of one who is in thorough sympathy with the policies and aims of the present administration and whose broad experience and matured judgment will save him from the visionary schemes of doctrinaires and the legislative experiments advocated by an inexperienced and wholly incompetent minority, which throughout the session just concluded, has demonstrated with augmented emphasis, its utter incompetence to direct the affairs of a great and growing nation.

If the Memorial day address of Secretary Taft on General Grant is regarded as a whole and with an eye to its intent, there is no ground whatever for the criticism voiced by some of its veteran hearers. The Secretary referred to certain weaknesses of Grant's early manhood, to his drinking and to his poor success at farming and later in business, and it is impossible to make an honest estimate of Grant's career without taking these things into consideration. In Secretary Taft's speech they were used solely to emphasize an eloquent tribute to the Grant of later years; to accentuate the wonders of self-rehabilitation displayed when emergency and duty had called the great soldier to the front and had brought out his hitherto latent powers. In speaking of the criticisms of this speech, Secretary Taft says, among other things: "The lives of our great men belong to the country. If facts are told showing that that had weaknesses which they overcame, the force of their successful example is greater to lift the youth of the country up to emulate them than if they are painted as perfect without temptation and without weaknesses."

Sheet Iron Rolled Thin.

Sheet iron is rolled so thin at the iron mills that 15,000 sheets are required to make a single inch in thickness. Light shines as readily through one of these sheets as through ordinary tissue paper.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever". But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn nerves leave us languid, listless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The restorative of won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tired spot". Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by J. H. Swan.

The Wedding Gift Problem.

When a girl receives over 600 "numerous and costly" wedding gifts, what can she do with them? If she is to live in a flat, there can be no room for a quarter of that number; if she furnishes a big house with them, what becomes of her individual taste? And if she is not to have any particular abiding place, then only the storage warehouse will be benefited. The more popular the bride, and the richer she is, the harder becomes this problem, what to do with one's presents. Cynics say that the Newlyweds should consider themselves lucky to be supplied with wedding and Christmas gifts for their friends for years to come, only care must be taken not to send them their own again.

Congenial Occupation.

"I wish my husband could get a situation in the weather bureau," said the discouraged looking woman. "Why do you select that branch of the government service?" "Because there's nothing he really seems to enjoy doing except to sit around and speculate on whether it's going to rain to-morrow."

Cruel.

"There," said Humer, in conclusion, "clever ideas, isn't it? I thought I'd work it up into a ballad." "Why not a quatrain?" suggested Crittiek. "Oh, that's too short." "I don't believe any editor would think so."

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered to the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by J. H. Swan.

Bank of England's Graveyard.

Few visitors to the Bank of England are aware that it contains, besides vaults full of bullion and specie, a graveyard. During the famous Garden riots in 1780 the bank was attacked by the mob, and was at one time in considerable danger.

The incident drew the attention of the authorities to the fact that an adjoining church, having the peculiar name of Saint Christopher-le-Stocks, was in a military sense a source of danger, and an act of parliament was passed to enable the directors to purchase the church and churchyard.

The church, a quaint old structure, was pulled down and the churchyard laid out as a garden, now known as the Bank gardens, which boasts the largest lime tree in London.

Fish Food and National Greatness.

There is not the smallest reason to suppose that a meat-eating nation would be superior either in intellect or physique to a fish-eating one. We as a race were never stronger than when we fed on fish to such an extent that the careful guardian of the newly entered apprentice commonly inserted a clause in his indentures stipulating that he was not to be required to eat salmon more than three days a week.—London Globe.

Thinks It Saved his Life.

Leslie M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle than I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swan's drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Evolution of Travel

First—Walking.
Second—Stage coach.
Third—Railroad.
Today—By telephone. For economy, speed, comfort it excels all others. The most convenient way to visit Chicago. Chicago Telephone Company.

Long Ways Around in Scotland.

Scotland possesses several other railway anomalies, of which probably the most notable is that of the stations of Mallaig and Kyle, of Lochalsh, which, though only 20 miles apart in a straight line, are separated by no less than 300 miles of rail by the shortest route, viz., Crianlarich, Balmquhitter, Perth and Inverness. Yet another Scotch incongruity is that the nearest railway station to the town of Port Ellen, on the Island of Islay, is not except the small local line at Campbeltown, is Ballycastle, in Ireland.—London Globe.

Happy New Zealand.

New Zealand is described by its inhabitants as "the happiest country in the world." It is now a dominion. Some of the pretty names given to it by New Zealanders are: "The Fortunate Isles," "The Wonderland of the Pacific," "All Lands in One" and "The Star of the South."

Speculators.

There are two kinds of foolish speculators—those who speculate with other people's money and those who speculate with their own.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF

The Eighth Senatorial District

I desire to announce that I shall be a candidate for the Lower House of Representatives of the General Assembly, from the Eighth Senatorial District, subject to the Republican Primaries to be held August 8, 1908.

In the 44th General Assembly, 1905, and the 45th General Assembly, 1907—in substantially four sessions—the 8th Senatorial District and McHenry county have had the honor and the influence of filling the Speakership of the Lower House. How fairly or how poorly I have filled that position I can only leave to the judgment of others, upon the record, and to the opinion of those who have served in the House.

That there is a very good opportunity for the 8th Senatorial District and McHenry county to fill the position of Speaker in the Lower House for a third successive term, and that it is the request of many of the present members who are candidates for re-election, are the causes of my candidacy at the present time.

If elected, I shall vote upon the question of the United States Senatorship as instructed by the Republicans of this District, in the primaries of August 8th.

Very respectfully,
EDWARD D. SHURTLEFF.

Chemicals in the Street.

Recently, in New York, carbonyl of acid fell from a dray and were smashed on the pavement. The released liquids mingled, and the chemical result of their union was a flame which flooded the street. The throngs of shoppers fled in terror. Water was powerless against the blaze; but luckily sand was at hand, and with this the firemen mastered the situation. Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

For BACKACHE—WEAK KIDNEYS Try DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills—Sure and Safe J. H. SWAN.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, aneurism, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both of Swamp-Root, sent free by mail, Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Revised Version.

The mother of a little four-year-old lad thought that her son should have some religious instruction, so she explained carefully what she thought he would be able to understand about such matters and then taught him the children's prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep." She said it over and he repeated it after her and then she started to say it again.

"Oh, no, mamma," said the young religious enthusiast; "let's not say that one this time. Let's say, 'Took him by the hind legs and threw him down the stairs.'"

Piles are easily and quickly checked with Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. To prove it I will mail a small trial box as a convincing test. Simply address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. I surely would not send it free unless I was certain that Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment would stand the test. Remember it is made expressly and alone for swollen painful, bleeding, or itching piles, either external or internal. Large jar 50c. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Accomplishments.

Every human being must put up with the coldest civility, who has neither the charms of youth nor the wisdom of age. Neither is there the slightest compensation for decayed accomplishments; no man mourns over the fragments of a dancer, or draps a tear on the relics of musical skill—they are flowers destined to perish; but the decay of great talents is always the subject of solemn pity, and even when their last memorial is over, their ruins and vestiges are regarded with pious affection.—Sidney Smith.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitter," writes Mr. Frank Conlan of No 436 Houston St., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swan drug store. 50c.

The Ashes of Grieg.

An urn containing the ashes of Edward Grieg, has been permanently placed in a natural grotto, situated in a cliff at Troldhaugen, near Bergen. The grotto can only be reached from the water side, as the rocks at this point jut down straight into the fjord. After the urn has been placed in position, the grotto is to be hermetically sealed and marked up by a marble tablet. Steps are also being taken for the erection of a monument to Grieg. But it will take the unusual form of a large concert hall to be built in Bergen, Grieg's birthplace.

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of their digestive juices that destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take promptly, but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol For Dyspepsia and indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is realizable guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by J. H. Swan.

The Soft Answer.

Struck on the head with an egg while addressing an audience at Croydon public hall, Mr. Victor Grayson, M. P., declined to be disturbed by the softly yielding argument which has impinged itself against his cerebral sum.—London Daily Mail.

MARRIAGES AT SECOND HAND.

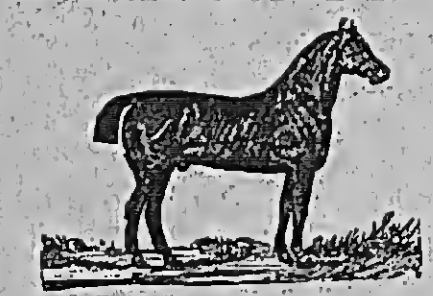

Peculiar Ceremony Believed by Many to Be Legal.

"Second-hand marriages," said a clergyman to a Philadelphia Bulletin writer, "are believed legitimate and binding by many ignorant people. In fact, during my slum work, I found a number of worthy couples who claimed to have been married second-hand. Of course, such marriages have no existence in law.

"To marry second-hand, you and your lady attend an actual wedding, and silently make the responses which the real bride and bridegroom make about."

"Second-hand marriages are popular on account of their cheapness—they save all fees. Their secrecy is another great advantage—none can find them out. In fact, everybody would probably marry second-hand, but for the unfortunate fact that the ceremony doesn't legally hold."

Near Postoffice

WE DESIRE to thank the People of Antioch and vicinity for their unanimous response to our invitation to attend the opening of our New Store on Saturday last, at 212 N. Genesee St., Waukegan, and for their hearty co-operation making this the greatest event of its nature that Waukegan has ever witnessed.

The careful attention I have given during the past five years to the slightest wish of our patrons has surely created within them a feeling of confidence, as was manifested on Opening Day. Hour after hour during the entire day people thronged our store in such numbers that it was utterly beyond the ability of our augmented sales-force to supply their wants.

We take this opportunity of apologizing for what may have seemed negligence on the part of some of our sales-force. After securing all the available experienced assistance possible, we were compelled to engage others whose experience in this line was limited, and even after doing our utmost, meeting the demands of the immense throngs was beyond all possibility. We have always felt that the people had confidence in our ability to procure for them goods of high quality at prices below the ordinary, but we're surely astonished to witness the response to the invitation extended through the columns of the different journals. For today's sale our tables are again filled with fresh new goods, and during each day, as our Opening Week Sale continues, we will place on display goods direct from the makers' hands at prices that defy all competition. Following are a few of the many extra values at our store.

QUEEN OF ACTRESSES PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE.

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.

Any remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and nervous debility is the result.

Peruna is not a nervine nor a stimulant. It benefits the nerves by benefiting digestion.

Peruna frees the stomach of catarrhal congestions and normal digestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, Wallaces, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for six years. Was treated by three doctors. They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

"I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured."

DAD AND HIS MEMORY.

Old Gentleman Really Had Very Little to Brag About.

It was a severe trial to Mr. Harding that his only son's memory was not all that could be desired. "Where in the world he got such a forgetful streak from is beyond me," said the exasperated father to his wife on one occasion.

"What has he forgotten now?" asked Mrs. Harding, with eyes downcast and a demure expression.

"The figures of the last return from the election on the bulletin-board," and Mr. Harding inserted a finger in his collar as if to loosen it, and shook his head vehemently. "Looked at 'em as he came past not half an hour ago, and now can't tell me."

"As I said to him: 'If you're so stupid you can't keep a few simple figures in your head, why don't you write 'em down on a piece of paper, as I do, and have done all my life, long before I was your age?' Youth's Companion.

LOOKING FOR COMFORT.

"Hurry up, Shorty, an' git a move on! I wants to make der next town before der fall closes der night!"

Useless Society.

Mrs. Jones often declared that she enjoyed a little chat with their fish-dealer because he was a man of such original ideas, but one day, says London Opinion, she returned from market somewhat puzzled by his remarks.

"I said to him, just in the way of conversation," declared Mrs. Jones, "that I had heard that a man becomes like that with which he most associates."

"That's ridiculous, Mrs. Jones!" he answered. "I've been a fishmonger all my life and can't swim a yard."

BUILT UP

Right Food Gives Strength and Brain Power.

The natural elements of wheat and barley, including the phosphate of potash, are found in Grape-Nuts, and that is why persons who are run down from improper food pick up rapidly on Grape-Nuts.

"My system was run down by excessive night work," writes a N. Y. man, "in spite of a liberal supply of ordinary food."

"After using Grape-Nuts I noticed improvement at once, in strength, and nerve and brain power."

"This food seemed to lift me up and stay with me for better exertion, with less fatigue. My weight increased 20 lbs. with vigor and comfort in proportion."

"When traveling I always carry the food with me to insure having it."

TORNADO IS FATAL CHURCH SET ON FIRE

THREE CHILDREN MISSING

Cyclone in Texas Causes Loss of Life and Property—Floods in Oklahoma and Kansas.

St. Paul, Minn.—A special from Charles City, Ia., says that a tornado struck that town about five o'clock Sunday evening, demolishing about 200 residences and barns. W. R. Beck and a child were killed and three children are reported missing.

The path of the storm was about ten rods wide and ten miles long. All telephone wires are down, and details as to the destruction wrought in the country are meager.

The tornado started about three miles southeast of town, tearing down farmhouses and barns and killing many head of stock. It struck the southwest part of Charles City, plowing a path through to the northeast side, and spent itself a few miles from town.

Dallas, Tex.—In a storm near Bowie, Montague county, in northwest Texas, loss of life and great property damage was reported Sunday.

Guthrie, Okla.—Two spans of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe bridge across the Canadian river at Purcell, Okla., went out Saturday night and traffic between Oklahoma City and Texas has been suspended ever since. The Cottonwood river here is within three feet of the top of the banks and the citizens fear another flood. Serious damage has resulted to crops throughout the state.

Topeka, Kan.—With the Kansas river barely below the flood stage and rising steadily at the rate of about an inch an hour, and warned by the government weather officials that a rise of four to six feet would occur by Monday night, there was a great exodus of people from North Topeka Sunday afternoon.

WILLIAM E. QUINBY DEAD.

Former Diplomat and Proprietor of Detroit Free Press.

Detroit, Mich.—William Emory Quinby, for many years editor and proprietor of the Detroit Free Press, and former United States minister to the Netherlands, died Sunday in Grace hospital, after an illness of three months. His illness really began in 1905, after the death of his wife, over whose loss he grieved deeply. He was 73 years old.

Mr. Quinby was born at Brewer, Me., in 1835, and spent his boyhood days at Lisbon.

He is survived by six children, Theodore E. Quinby, Harry W. Quinby, Herbert M. Quinby, Mrs. J. W. Davis, Jr., of South Weymouth, Mass.; Mrs. Florence de Funak of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Evelyn Stamp of Cleveland.

KILLS HIMSELF WHILE INSANE.

Former Wisconsin Man Commits Suicide in Sensational Manner.

Washington.—After holding the police at bay for six hours Dr. Joseph Pospisil, an employee of the pension office, shot himself through the brain Sunday morning while insane. Laboring under a delusion that an attempt was being made to murder him, he fired at pedestrians and into the homes of neighbors, and when the police came he reloaded his pistol and fired upon them, preventing their near approach to the house. Altogether he fired about 50 shots in this way, none of which, however, took effect.

Dr. Pospisil came to Washington from Wisconsin about 18 years ago. He has relatives in that state.

SIX MINERS ARE KILLED.

Others in Dangerous Condition at Gladstone, Col.

Silverton, Col.—Six men are dead, eight others in a dangerous condition from breathing foul air, and 25 or 30 more temporarily confined to their homes from weakness due to contact with poisoned air in the Gold King mine, located at Gladstone, six miles from here.

Peter White Dies Suddenly.

In the race from Marblehead to Hamilton, the start of which was made shortly after 11 a. m. last Wednesday, the Venona is the smallest boat in the fleet, and Capt. COOLNESS OF PRIESTS TO HEAR SAVES MANY FROM DEATH.

PEOPLE QUIETLY SENT OUT

Shocking Case of Incendiarism Near Berlin, Where Throng Gathered to Hear a Famous Dominican Monk.

Berlin.—An attempt was made Monday to burn down the old St. Paulus Catholic church at Moabit, belonging to the Dominicans, which was crowded with people assembled to hear a sermon by the famous Dominican monk, Bonaventuri. About 1,500 persons were present, including more than a thousand women and children, to hear the mass.

While the congregation was kneeling in silent prayer some one informed Father Bonaventuri that the church was afire. Without alarming the congregation, he coolly stepped over to the priest who was celebrating mass and requested him to close the service.

The priest left the altar and spoke to his six assistants, who walked down the aisles and whispered to the pew-holders that an insignificant blaze had broken out and that they had better leave the building as soon as possible.

At this time the entire roof of the church was a mass of flames and the fire brigade was hurrying to the burning building. Those in the church, not knowing the extent of the blaze, fortunately did not realize their peril, and on the clergy's request made their exit rapidly and in an orderly manner.

When they reached the streets they found the firemen drawn up, with ladders against the walls. The fire fighters discovered that nearly a dozen firebrands, soaked with petroleum, had been distributed about various parts of the roof. The flames were extinguished with difficulty after great damage had been done. The police suspect a gang of incendiaries, who, it is stated, set fire to the old Garrison church, which was destroyed on April 14 last.

The firemen declare that only the coolness of the clergy prevented a great disaster.

FIVE MONTHS IN HOSPITAL.

Discharged Because Doctors Could Not Cure.

Levi P. Brockway, S. Second Ave., Anoka, Minn., says:

"After lying in a hospital I was discharged as incurable, and given only six months to live. My heart was affected, I had smothering spells and sometimes fell unconscious. I got so I couldn't use my arms, my eyesight was impaired and the kidney secretions were badly disordered. I was completely worn out and discouraged when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, but they went right to the cause of the trouble and did their work well. I have been feeling well ever since."

TORTURED SIX MONTHS

By Terrible Itching Eczema—Baby's Suffering Was Terrible—Soon Entirely Cured by Cuticura.

"Eczema appeared on my son's face. We went to a doctor who treated him for three months. Then he was so bad that his face and head were nothing but one sore and his ears looked as if they were going to fall off, so we tried another doctor for four months, the baby never getting any better. His hand and legs had big sores on them and the poor little fellow suffered so terribly that he could not sleep. After he had suffered six months we tried a set of the Cuticura Remedies and the first treatment let him sleep and rest well; in one week the sores were gone and in two months he had a clear face. Now he is two years and has never had eczema again. Mrs. Louis Beck, R. F. D. 3, San Antonio, Tex., Apr. 15, 1907."

She Said So, Anyway.

The young man who was endeavoring to win the favor of Bobby's pretty sister met the boy on the street one morning, and greeted him with much cordiality.

"Er—do you think your sister was pleased to know I had called the other day?" he was at last forced to ask, bluntly, after several efforts to guide Bobby's conversation in that direction.

"Sure!" said Bobby, with gratifying promptness. "I know she was. I heard her say so."

"When she came home mother said, 'Mr. Brown called while you were out,' and she said, 'He did? Well, I'm glad of that!'"—Youth's Companion.

Kangaroo as a Food.

Twenty or 30 years ago the back country squatters, in order to destroy kangaroos, used to dig huge pits at the corners of their paddocks, running yards of calico along their wire fences and then drive the kangaroos into the pits, clubbing and shooting them. In those days kangaroo skins were of no value; now that they are almost extinct, there is a great demand for them. The flesh of a young kangaroo, by no means to be despised, and kangaroo tail soup is a delicacy now hardly to be obtained.

AGAIN DECLINED WITH THANKS.

Would-Be Contributor "Up Against" the Misanthrope Editor.

The editor looked up as the caller came forward, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Sir," said the latter, "you objected to the meter of the spring poem I submitted to you the other day. Because of this I have for the present dropped poetry and turned my attention to the art of the essayist. Here, sir, is a paper on 'Woman and Her Defects,' which I trust you will find to your liking."

The editor stared hard at the title of the essay.

"'Woman and Her Defects,'" he repeated. "Are you a married man, sir?"

"No," replied the caller. "I am not married."

The editor laughed harshly.

"You should choose subjects," he said, "with which you have had an opportunity to become familiar."

And he handed back the essay on "Woman and Her Defects."

How Things Went.

Elliott H. Peabody is one of the best-known men at the Worcester county courthouse. At one time he and a few others were interested in a business deal which they expected to put through on a certain day. He was unable to be there, so the next day telephoned to Mr. H— for particulars. A lady answered the phone, and said that Mr. H— was not at home. Mr. Peabody, supposing it to be Mrs. H—, said: "Well, perhaps you can tell me what I want to know. I only wanted to inquire how things went last night."

The lady, in a cheerful, reassuring tone, said: "Oh, nicely! Mrs. H— is doing fine, and the baby weighs six and a half pounds. I'm the nurse."—Lippincott's.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. It's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brush your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is always. It's a strong Common Sense. We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

HAVE FINEST FARMS ON EARTH.

Secret of Success of the Norman French Agriculturist.

The modern farmer was applying electrical massage to a cart horse's sprained knee. During the intervals of rest he talked farm talk.

"There are tenants," he said, "who, when they move, carry their farms with them as the tortoise does his house. These people are the Norman French, the world's best farmers. Where you or I would require 20 or 30 acres of land to keep one family, the French farmer will keep his family on a quarter of an acre. If he choose to cultivate 20 or 30 acres he would become a millionaire. His secret lies in the perfection to which he brings his top soil. What with fertilizing and watering and clearing, his top soil is the blackest, finest, richest soil on earth. His top soil is to the French farmer what her voice is to a prima donna. And when he rents he contracts that on the termination of his lease he may carry off 18 inches of the top soil with him.

"When you see a French farmer moving one small cart carries his household goods, and in seven or eight enormous drays his top soil lumbers on behind."

Newton's Telescope. Newton's telescope, which Sir David Gill proudly exhibited to his juvenile audience at the Royal Institution in London recently, is a clumsy looking instrument nine inches in length, two inches in aperture and capable of magnifying 38 times. It was entirely made by Newton himself, who first exhibited it before the Royal Society in 1671; and more than 100 years later his successor in the presidency of the society laid before George III. Sir William Herschel's scheme for making a telescope on Newton's plan, to be 40 feet in length and four feet in aperture.

Complimentary to Verdi. Edward Rice relates that when Herr von Bulow was in Boston, Napier Lowthion, musical director at the Boston theater, introduced him, saying, "Herr von Bulow, this is Mr. Rice, a Boston man, who knows nothing about music whatever, but who has written two operas." "So?" said Von Bulow, interrogatively. "Yes, but also in Europe a shentleman hat knows nothing about music, and hat written about plenty operas—Meester Verdi."

BEFORE THE DAYS OF SUCCESS.

Great Artists' Paintings Not Always in Brisk Demand.

Alma-Tadema has told a story of the fate of two unsuccessful pictures of his student days. One of them was returned unsold by the committee of the Brussels exhibition in 1859. The subject was a house on fire, with people rescuing the victims. The artist's fellow students were asked into Alma-Tadema's studio, and were invited to jump through the canvas, the owner of it leading the way by leaping head first through the oily flames.

The other unsuccessful effort was a large sized square picture that came back again and again to its creator's easel; until at last it was cut out of its frame and given to an old woman to use as a table cover.

The picture was praised by at least one person who appreciated its excellence, so Alma-Tadema used to declare; for the old woman was wont to remark that it was much better than those common oilcloth things that always let the water through, as the picture of Alma-Tadema's making was a good thick one, with plenty of paint on it.—Sunday Magazine.

Hunter's Strange Trophy.

The skull of a deer with its horns fastened in the fork of an alder tree not more than six inches in diameter and three feet from the ground, partially covered with bark that has grown over it in the years since the unfortunate animal met its death, was found by C. P. Oldenburg in the forests of Fidalgo Island while hunting several days ago.

From the position of the bare skull and the horns it is presumed that the deer was trying to scratch the back of its head against the young tree when one of its horns became fastened under a limb. It is considered probable that the animal's neck was broken in its efforts to extricate itself. Mr. Oldenburg estimates that the skull has been suspended from the tree where he found it for at least two years.—Seattle Times.

Howells on the Wicked Rich. "Riches," writes William Dean Howells in a whimsical mood, "riches in another is having a good deal more than you have. Economy," he continues, with chuckling satire, "is trimming your own hats sometimes, and giving up all your cake but the one you like best. As for charity, if you're poor, it's a plain case. You can't do this or that good action; you haven't got the money. But the rich never say they can't afford to do it, so they have a bad conscience, and nothing is so depraving as a bad conscience, and that," concludes Mr. Howells with satisfaction, "is what makes the rich so wicked."—Harper's Magazine.

Newton's Telescope. Newton's telescope, which Sir David Gill proudly exhibited to his juvenile audience at the Royal Institution in London recently, is a clumsy looking instrument nine inches in length, two inches in aperture and capable of magnifying 38 times. It was entirely made by Newton himself, who first exhibited it before the Royal Society in 1671; and more than 100 years later his successor in the presidency of the society laid before George III. Sir William Herschel's scheme for making a telescope on Newton's plan, to be 40 feet in length and four feet in aperture.

Complimentary to Verdi. Edward Rice relates that when Herr von Bulow was in Boston, Napier Lowthion, musical director at the Boston theater, introduced him, saying, "Herr von Bulow, this is Mr. Rice, a Boston man, who knows nothing about music whatever, but who has written two operas." "So?" said Von Bulow, interrogatively. "Yes, but also in Europe a shentleman hat knows nothing about music, and hat written about plenty operas—Meester Verdi."

The Frog. They stood on the bridge at midnight. From the stream arose a melancholy sound.

"Ah," he exclaimed, "there at last is certain sign of spring."

"What, dear?" she asked.

"The croak-croak," he replied, feelingly.—Kansas City Times.

Daily Thought.

Half the world is on the wrong scent in the pursuit of happiness. They think it consists in having and getting and in being served by others. It consists in giving and serving others.—Henry Drummond.

Buy Hair at Auction?

At any rate, you seem to be getting rid of it on auction-sale principles: "going, going, go-o-n-e!" Stop the auction with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It certainly checks falling hair; no mistake about this. It acts as a regular medicine; makes the scalp healthy. Then you must have healthy hair, for it's nature's way.

The best kind of a testimonial—

"Sold for over sixty years."
